

Overboard: An action that may start off in a good way (funny, interesting, CLEVER) but then goes too far. The action is excessive.

Yellow is OK, or even Good./ RED means too much... you've gone too far.

Overboard

How much salt would you put on your food (i.e., popcorn, soup, etc.)?

If you shake the salt container too much, the food will taste super salty and you may not like it.

The Answer: Shake the salt container just 2-4 times...anything over 6-8 times will make the food too salty, because you went too far or Overboard.

How much of hot sauce would you put on your food, like Demon's Hot Sauce below?

The Answer: Only ONE, and if you are brave, TWO.
(Demon Hot Sauce is very, very, very, very, very “hot,”
so if use more than one or two drops you will have gone too far or Overboard).

If you notice, it does not take much to go overboard with salt or hot sauce.
The same is true with some other things like

- ❖ Saying the same joke or funny statement more than once or twice.
- ❖ Saying a catchy phrase (“That’s cool” “N - i - c - e” “Whatever” “Dude” “Mick Jagger”) more than two to three times.

Silly

- ❖ Even giving more than two or three compliments to the same person can be going too far. (“You’re so awesome...Wow you’re smart...You’re great at Wii”)
- ❖ Saying “Hi” twice to the same person or giving more than one high-5 is also too much and therefore, Overboard!

In some cases, an Overboard statement did not even start off well, in that it was too far or excessive from the very start. In this case, whatever was done was extreme!

RED means too much... you've gone too far.

Extreme

Overboard right away

Examples of going Overboard right away –

- Using your private body parts in a joke.
- Swearing
- Touching someone in the face or head area
- Negative comments about a person's race or religion
- Any negative comments about a person's body
